Full job description

Your new company

An established civil construction company who has developed an excellent reputation for delivering high quality projects to their clients across the civil, commercial and residential sectors in the Townsville region is seeking an experienced Foreman.

Your new role

Your new role will see you reporting to the Site Manager, responsible for overseeing the delivery of civil construction projects, co-ordination of trades on site, liaising with sub-contractors & suppliers and management of materials and deliveries.

What you'll need to succeed

To be successful in this role you will have a trade background, sound understanding of Australian Building standards as well as strong communication and computer skills.

What you'll get in return

This role would be well suited to someone living in or relocating to the Townsville region who wants to continue managing interesting projects and growing their career within a well established business and are offering a competitive salary to the right person.

What you need to do now
